BLAIRMORE'S FIELD DAYS
JULY 1ST AND 2ND

A largely attended meeting was held in Mr. Charbonnier's ball room on Monday afternoon, when the programme as drafted by the committee was considered and with minor amendments approved. The program is the best ever staged in this corner of the province and includes all kinds of field sports and athletic events, such as foot races for adults and children, various jumps, football, baseball, basketball, horse racing, etc., and about one thousand dollars will be given in prizes.
Concessions for booths were granted to the Red Cross and other applications were disposed of. A dance will likely be given in the opera house on the night of July 1st.
Mine rescue cars will be spotted near the West Canadian tipple, in which vicinity the competitions in mine rescue and first aid will take place. The sports grounds are being got in readiness and it is expected that at least three thousand people will be present for the two days' events.
Some sixteen or eighteen teams will take part in the mine rescue work, while twelve teams have already entered for the first-aid competitions.
We understand that in addition to the above, several juvenile first-aid teams will compete. The mine rescue and first-aid competitions are under the direction of the provincial Workmen's Compensation Board, with Mr. Duncan MacDonald, of Calgary, as general superintendent.
In last year's competitions at Drumheller, several teams from the Pass won high honors. Below we reproduce a picture of the Blairmore team that brought back certificates and medals, having ranked high in merit. This same team has entered again this year and are hopeful of gaining first place.

True Bear Stories

By O.G.E.-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

An old Indian friend of mine named Robert Bear (still living), with whom I passed the spring on two neighboring stages in the flooded lands of the lower Saskatchewan many years ago, used to chat with me over his hunting experiences round the camp fire; some are being built on a clay bottom, on the poles which formed the floor of each stage, and I have known the water rise very close to the floor, but this only for a short time and when the ice had jammed at the elbow of the Big River.

Robert was a sincere Christian and a devout member of the English Church which has done so much towards the work amongst the Indian tribes of the Northwest; his grandmother was, it is said an Esquimaux, while he was born and brought up amongst the swampy Cree of the lower Red River. He was a splendid big game and fur hunter, he was remarkably cool in moments of danger as the following incidents will show.

At my request for a story one evening, Robert said, "I was in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Company at Fairford Post, situated at the south end of Lake Manitoba, and the master there had occasion to send an express packet of importance to Fort Garry; this I was to take alone and on foot, and I decided to strike a direct course through the bush and swamps. It was in the spring of the year, and I was travelling light; a H.B. blanket, a point, two spare pair of moccasins; a single barrel flint lock gun; tomahawk and scalping knife with some tea, tobacco and matches made up the outfit. I took no provisions, but would depend on game killed on route. The distance roughly speaking would be about 160 miles, and on my second morning out I started as usual at an hour or so walking came out on the bank of a small round lake, about a long stone throw across; on the north side directly opposite to me were two black bears standing on their hind legs and wrestling. I at once alighted a trading bullet on top of the shot change in my gun, opened the gun and tapped the cross to show the distance. The bears were in a powder well up; just as I was occupied in this the bears dropped on their four feet, looked across at me and each taking different directions started at a clumsy gallop round the lake. One thinks quick in a moment of this kind and I was not prepared for my single barrel to meet both bears at once so I started to run and meet one of them, he came on at the same pace and when within a few feet I fired and killed him dead, then with my foot on his body I loaded as quickly as possible, but none too soon as the other bear was very close; taking careful aim I fired and killed him dead within a few feet of his mate."

"And then, Robert, what did you do?"

"I knelt down and thanked God for mercifully preserving my life (truly here was a lesson from the Indian how few white men would have thought of their Maker). Well, my hunt was a good one, the bears were both young males and in prime condition; I decided to camp for a while and dry the skins so that I could put them in my pack. I took out my pocket money in Fort Garry; while the skins, after being carefully scraped, were drying, I cut a quantity of the meat up in thin strips and hung it on stakes in the smoke, this meaning grub for the trip. There was still a quantity of meat over and I did not want to waste the good food unfortunately there was a muskoxe killed and on pulling upon a lot of moss I came to ice and on that I piled the spare meat, then placed heavy logs over the cache to keep off Mister Wolverine."

This was the only exciting occurrence on the trip. On my return I struck a small Indian encampment and was received with the greatest hospitality as usual and in return I directed them to my bears meat cache and told them they were very welcome to the meat."

Many years after this Robert moved with his family to the south branch of the Saskatchewan and located on a small farm, where from this date he would go on extended hunts in the winter and crop his land in the summer time. About the same time or a year or so later I had started my trading in the St. John's Cree district (now McLeod), and on a trading trip to Chaska-in-pas-in's hands at Wawage-mov I was offered parts of three black bear skins and at once inquired what happened to the rest of the skins. Their story told me by Ne-too-pa-tin-eynew was that a huge old grizzly had wandered in from the plains (and not hibernating like the local bears), had found the winter dens of these unfortunates, dug them out, feasted on the meat and thus mutilated the hides; he had followed the track for some distance northwards and then dropped it. In the meantime the news of Mr. Grizzly's arrival had spread far and wide as they were rare visitors in the north country; Robert Bear was one of the first to hear of it and never having shot a grizzly he determined to track him if at all possible.

He was, I think, some three days on the trail, a trail as before with a single barrel gun, axe and knife, but at this date percussion locks had replaced the old-time flint, and after considerable circling he found the track at the main Saskatchewan River below the Forks; the bear crossed the river here and took to the dense bush; finally the track freshened and Robert stopped, overhauled his gun, replaced the cap and then with a determination that it was either him or the bear to cross the Great Divide, he waited for a favorable wind, then, stepping like a baller dancer, he crept along the trail.

Canadian Cattle Not Diseased

Scotch Professor Admits a Different Reason For Embargo.

London.—Professor Wallace, of Edinburgh University, who drew such a gloomy picture before the cattle embargo commission concerning the state of Scotland if the embargo were removed, has expressed the opinion that the chief reason of the agitation for the removal of the embargo was Canada was anxious to dispose of her surplus cattle, totalling last year 300,000 head, by dumping them in Great Britain owing to the United States duty.

If the embargo were lifted he feared that a similar agitation would arise in South Africa, which was full of cattle disease. The witness admitted, however, that there had not been a single case of cattle disease in Canada for years, but refused credit for this to Canadian inspection.

Duke of Atholl Mentioned

Scotish Peer May Be Next Governor-General.

Ottawa.—According to advices received here, the latest name to be prominently mentioned as Governor-General of Canada in succession to the Duke of Devonshire, is the Duke of Atholl, son of a family long prominent in the Scottish peerage. Notification definite has been announced and those previously spoken of—Lord Byng, the Earl of Northumberland and Lord Desborough—are still regarded as the favorites.

It is officially estimated that the Duke of Devonshire will take leave of Canada on June 18, though his term is not up till the fall. In any interval between his departure and the coming of his successor, the chief justice will act as administrator of the government.

Waterspout Destroys Portuguese Provinces

Houses in Portugal Swept Away and Land Flooded.

Lisbon.—A huge waterspout in the Maia-Doura province has almost totally destroyed four parishes. It swept away houses and flooded the land and railways. Many of the people are homeless, and a petition has been sent to the Government for help. A large supply of maize for bread was forwarded, and workmen are being dispatched to repair the damage.

French Use Tanks in Silesia

Said to Have Been Successful in Charge Against Germans.

Oppels.—French soldiers, forming the 1st division of Beuth, a city in Southwestern Silesia, near the old Polish frontier, have been attacked by forces organized by the German inhabitants of the town. Reports state that the Germans engaged numbered 3,000. The French have used tanks in charging on the Germans and are said to have gained the upper hand in the battle. There have been many German casualties, it is reported, but the French have not suffered heavy losses.

Irish Still Have Cock Fights

Illegal Sport Carried on in Spite of Trouble.

Dublin.—In the midst of all the turmoil in Ireland, the popular but illegal sport of cock fighting is not being allowed to lapse. There has just been a great assembly of at least 1,000 people on an island on Lough Neagh.

Some fights took place, but before they concluded, 150 police succeeded in reaching the island. That ended the matches. The spectators were permitted to go free.

Ireland Has Dark Record

Many Civilians Have Been Assassinated Since January First.

London.—Ireland was again to the forefront during the question period in the House of Commons. Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Hamar Greenwood, the chief secretary, being bombarded with inquiries regarding recent events there. The chief secretary said that since January 1, 1921, six women had been murdered, seven wounded and three kidnapped by the Sinn Feiners. During the fortnight ending May 8, 20 police, eight military and 40 civilian deaths were reported by the police. There were nine assassinations and two attempted assassinations of service men reported in the same period. No evidence incriminating the crown forces was forthcoming during May.

Rain Checks Outcrops in Alberta.

Lethbridge.—A heavy rain here giving more moisture than fell during the whole of June last year, has served to check the ravages of the outcrops, and puts the growing crops in splendid position so far as moisture is concerned. Conditions are as good as on the same date in 1915. The rain was general over Southern Alberta.

Hopes For Better Times.

Montreal.—At the annual meeting of the Merchants Bank of Canada, Sir H. Montague Allan, president, said that the general depression had affected the bank to some extent, "but we hope," said he, "the low point has been passed, and that there will soon be a change for the better." He warned clients to be cautious before undertaking new commitments.

Heads Medical Council.

Ottawa.—Hon. Dr. R. G. Brett, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, was elected president of the Dominion Medical Council at its session here. The chief item of business was the setting of papers for coming examinations.

Bank President Sees Robbery

Watched Bandits Escape With $16,000 In Currency.

Minneapolis.—A bag containing $16,000 in currency was taken from two messengers of the Millers and Traders Bank by five bandits as they stepped from an automobile in front of the bank here. The bank is located just across the street from police headquarters, and members of the sheriff's force, court attaches and the president of the bank, Guy Thomas, watched the robbery from across the street. The hold-up men escaped in an automobile, pursuing policemen losing trace of them in the heavy traffic.

Crop Prospects

Good in Manitoba

Country Well Organized to Cope With Hopper Menace.

Winnipeg.—With all conditions pointing to a bountiful crop, Manitoba farmers are generally optimistic regarding the yield this year, according to a report issued by the provincial agricultural department. The acreage, the report states is about normal. No actual harm has as yet been done by grasshoppers, but they are hatching generously in some places. The country, however, is well organized to cope with any situation which may arise from this pest.

Although seeding commenced later in some parts of Manitoba, the progress during May has been quite satisfactory. The large amount of plowing done last fall enabled rapid progress to be made with seeding, though in some sections all the barley has not been sown yet.

Contract Awarded For Irrigation Scheme

Work On 50 Mile Ditch Will Commence at Once.

Lethbridge, Alta.—Grant Smith & Company, and McDonald Limited, of Vancouver and Calgary, have been awarded the contract for excavation of six million feet of earth on the 50 mile of ditch for the Lethbridge northern irrigation project. The contract price was $1,660,279, which is a saving of about $470,000 on the original estimate of the government engineer, George Anderson, who had estimated the cost to be $2,130,000. If the remainder of the work is done at a similar saving, the total saving will likely reach $10 an acre which would reduce the capital outlay for the farmers to about $40 an acre.

The successful company will start work within two weeks, and expect to employ about 1,000 men.

Hope Of B.C. Eldorado.

European Conditions Said To Be Cause Of Industrial Depression

Austrians Want Foreign Credits

No Hope Of Relief For Next Few Months.

Vienna.—Sir William Goore, chairman of the Austrian section of the reparations commission, which has just gone out of existence, who has made several attempts to obtain British loans for Austria, sees some signs of improvement in the internal situation of this country but holds out no hope that the foreign credits the Austrians desire will be granted them within the next few months.

"Trade in Austria is beginning to approach the internal purchasing value of the crown and the people look healthier," Sir William says. "The supply of coal is now mainly a matter of money and at the moment can be identified with the question of credits. Raw materials are more easily obtained on long credits and the import requirements for these should be financed without any serious demand upon state funds."

Law Riot Causes Thirty Deaths

Blamed For Outbreak

Tulsa, Okla.—District Judge Jean Biddison called a special grand jury as the first step in an investigation of the Tulsa race riot which resulted in many casualties and much property damage.

According to the latest authentic report, nine white and twenty-one negroes are known to have been killed during the race-kill. An estimate of property damage at $1,500,000. All this, according to General C. F. Barrett, commanding the state troops, called here to maintain martial law, was incited by "an impudent negro, a hysterical girl and a yellow journal reporter."

Representative citizens of Tulsa condemned the city and county law enforcement officials, holding them responsible for the disastrous outbreak.

Cooked For Ex-Emperor.

New York.—Ludwig Urban, who carries credentials showing that he once prepared the food for Charles, former Emperor of Austria, is in New York looking for a job. Urban declares that even a chef suffered when an Emperor was overthrown, and he was able only to travel third class.

Another German Sentenced.

Leipzig.—The high court in session here engaged in the trial of Germans accused of offences committed during the war, imposed sentence of six months' imprisonment today on Sergeant Newman, accused of ill-treating British prisoners in a German camp.

Sawmill Is Burned.

Nelson, B.C.—Fire, the origin of which is at present unknown, completely destroyed the sawmill of the O'Neill and Mann Lumber Company at Boulder.

Hope Of Ireland Is To Defeat Republican Army

Sir Hamar Greenwood Says Irish People Would Be Glad If Government Did Them Of This Terror.

London.—Replying in the House to an attack on the Government policy of reprisals in Ireland and the Irish administration, Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, said that the number of troops in Ireland was not above the requirements that it had been impossible to provide guards for all public buildings. It was considered incredible, he said, that extremist Sinn Feiners should attempt to burn national possessions such as the customs house.

Two paragraphs, said the secretary, had been elected in Ireland. The Ulster Parliament would soon be constituted and it would then be impossible to extend martial law in that area without the consent of the Ulster Parliament. If Southern Ireland failed to take advantage of the opportunity, it would assume the responsibility of good government in the south, a new situation would arise which the Government must face with all its resources.

With regard to reprisals, no officer below the rank of Brigade Commander was entitled to order them, and all serious and abnormal acts were reviewed. If in any case innocent persons suffered by orders of a brigade commander, the secretary

Ottawa.—A general want of confidence on the part of the manufacturer, producer, middleman, and consumer, is at the base of unsatisfactory employment conditions in Canada in the opinion of the Senate committee on unemployment, which reported through its chairman, Senator J. A. MacDonald. The committee presented to the Senate a summary of evidence of witnesses representing the bankers, manufacturers and workingmen of Canada, and stated that it had not had sufficient time to thoroughly investigate the situation and make a comprehensive report.

The evidence of F. A. Acanal, deputy minister of labor, showed 200,000 fewer employed in April, 1921, than there were in July, 1920. The worst situation in the last two years had been reached at the end of April, and conditions had improved from that time. Coal mines in British Columbia, Alberta and Nova Scotia had been on part-time working instead of being closed down. Montreal and Toronto were stated to be the two cities which had fared worst in regard to unemployment.

Arthur Martel, Montreal, gave evidence for the labor point of view. Lack of employment, he said, was largely due to the noncirculation of money in Canada. People were waiting for prices to come down before they would buy. Mr. Martel suggested that if sacrifices were to be made, wage earners should not be called upon to make them. He favored a shorter work day as a means of absorbing more workers.

J. F. Walsh, representing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, pointed out to the committee that while Canadian manufacturers had done their utmost to absorb returned soldiers they could not keep their factories going without markets for their products.

Henry T. Ross, secretary Canadian Bankers' Association, said the chief cause of unemployment in Canada lay in European conditions. The European market was cut off. Manufacturers and wholesalers had taken their losses but retailers appeared to be keeping their prices up. Senator Robertson, minister of labor, suggested as remedies that periods of unemployment be anticipated and that Government purchases should be made at times when factories would otherwise be at their lowest pressure.

Publication Of Irish Papers Stopped.

Dublin.—By order of Maj. Gen. Sir Edward Strickland, commanding the British troops in Munster, the Freeman's Journal and the Dublin Evening Telegraph have been excluded for a week from circulation in the area covered by martial law.

B.C. Mine Strike Over.

Prince Rupert, B.C.—It is reported that the strike at the Premier Mine has been settled by a vote of 79 to 39. The basis of settlement has not been learned here.

APPROVE CHURCH UNION BY 414 TO 107

Organic union with the Methodist and Congregational churches was approved by the Presbyterian general assembly of Canada on Tuesday by a vote of 414 to 107. This was a little different from the vote on union taken at the Winnipeg assembly in 1916 when the returns were 506 to 90 in favor of union.

Alberta came last of all the synods in support of union, favoring the motion by only sixty-two per cent. of the voting strength. Ninety-five per cent. of the Manitoba vote was cast for union, and the Winnipeg Presbytery went solid for church union. British Columbia supported union to the extent of sixty-four per cent.

J. P. O'Neill returned from his holiday trip on Saturday night—a—unaccompanied.

Two candidates were initiated at last Monday night's meeting of the I. O. O. F. in Bellevue.

The provincial Masonic Grand Lodge met in Banff on Tuesday last.

According To Instructions

"Sarah," said a woman to her servant, "I am very tired and am going to lie down for an hour. If I happen to drop off call me at 5."
"Yes, ma'am," replied Sarah. The woman reclined on the couch, closed her eyes and was soon in the land of nod. She was awakened by the clock striking six and eyed indignantly: "Sarah, why didn't you call me at 5 as I told you to?"
"Well, ma'am, you told me to call you if you dropped off—I looked in at 5 and you hadn't dropped off at all. You was lying on the couch in the same place fast asleep!"

Ain't It Fine To-Day

Sure, this world is full of trouble—I ain't said it ain't, Lord, I've had enough and double Reason for complaint: Rain and storm have come to free me, Skies are often gray, Thorns and thistles have beset me On the road—but say, Ain't it fine to-day?

What's the use of always weepin', Makin' trouble for self? What's the use of always keepin' Thinkin' of the past? Each must have his tribulation—Water with his wine; Life, it ain't no celebration; Trouble—I've had mine! But, to-day is fine! It's to-day that I am livin', Not a month ago, Havin' losin' takin' givin'; As time will it so, Yesterday a cloud of sorrow Fell across the way; It may rain—but say, Ain't it fine to-day? —James Whitcomb Riley.

"If there is one line of business where advertising would seem to be not only unnecessary, but a distinct liability it is a bootlegger's. Nevertheless, one of these gentlemen in Vincennes, Indiana, appeared to think otherwise. He used an old white mule in his bid for trade. A sign on a stable, "White Mule For Sale," attracted the inquisitive. If they passed inspection they were told that another kind of mule was for sale, which had no legs but plenty of "kick." If a suspicious-looking person appeared he was shown the actual mule, for which an enormous price was asked.

Miner Killed at Bellevue

An accident happened in the Bellevue mine of the West Canadian Collieries on Wednesday forenoon, resulting in the almost instant death of Frank Corney, a timberman. Corney was in the act of setting timbers when he was hit by a tripped timber breaking his neck. He was about 45 years of age, of Bohemian birth and a resident of Frank, where he leaves a wife and three small children.

An inquest will be held and interment will take place at Blaimore cemetery on Friday afternoon.

Corney had been ill for a long period, and but returned to work twelve days ago. He on Friday last attended the funeral of his compatriot, Louis Poch, who met death in a very similar manner.

Hillcrest Happenings

(By our own dear Felix)

The mines worked four days last week.

Will Hutchinson left on Sunday night's train on a business and pleasure trip to Banff.

The houses in Kotten Row are going up fine, and wistful eyes glance that way every morning.

Mrs. Gladys and Olive Howcroft and Miss Nellie Royle went to Michipic Sunday to visit James Howcroft.

Still no desk at the postoffice for the convenience of the public, and no paint on the outside to attract the eyes of the leary seeker.

The many friends of Mrs. James Prieu will be pleased to learn that she is recovering nicely from her recent serious illness.

Cut worms are busy just now, but still our gardens, fruit trees and grape vines are one hour ahead in growth of any other in the district.

Blaimore 1, Hillcrest 0. But that does not represent the game at all. Hillcrest, especially in the second half, had it all over Blaimore, and how they failed to score on several occasions was a mystery. Keep it up, boys, you are doing well.

Since the reference in our last batch of Hillcrest Happenings to Professor Conway, the Blaimore golf expert, he has literally been besieged by clients, asking for advice. New offices are being acquired to cope with the ever-increasing business and he is now looked upon as the world's expert on the floating ball that dropped on the Irish coast.

The baseball match between the freeness and the office staff was a revelation. The result was 7-2 in favor of the freeness. The great pitching by Adam was an eye-opener and also the catching by W. Hutchinson. Several agents of the big American leagues are said to have been seen in town lately, so it is very likely we shall hear of some big transfers in the near future.

A tragic shooting took place in the country of Prescott, Ontario, on May 29, when a constable was forced to shoot and kill an insane man, who was shooting at his neighbors, determined to kill them for fancied grievances.

Cowley Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Elton were visitors to town on Friday.

Mrs. Dave Barnett is at present a business visitor to Fernie.

H. C. Morrison is having a fresh coat of paint put on his residence.

The latest improvement in town is a new verandah on Mr. Littleton's home.

Bert Manning and family, after several years' absence, have come back to pay a visit to the old town.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Easterbrook, who have been visiting at Wrentham, have returned home.

Gordon Idgett, who is employed in the Kewbank, is spending his vacation here with his parents.

Miss Mabel Edgett, who is employed in Lethbridge, came up to spend the week end with her parents.

Wednesday is the regular meeting day of the Rangers. Meetings are held in the Presbyterian church at 4 p. m.

Mr. Leigh is doing some extensive repairing to the H. Gery house. He intends moving his family here in the near future.

Although a good rain fell recently, more rain would yet do much good. The crops are looking good generally. So far new posts.

Some of the Trail Rangers are now making preparations to join the camp at Lac Lake, which will be held from July 18 to 25.

M. A. Murphy left Monday night for Banff, where he will attend the Masonic Grand Lodge. Fred Snyder is acting as postmaster during Mr. Murphy's absence.

A large crowd gathered to witness a baseball game, played between Cowley and Hillcrest here on Wednesday afternoon, June 8. The score was 7-2 in favor of Hillcrest. The Women's Institute served refreshments on the grounds.

On Thursday evening last a meeting was held in the Presbyterian church for the purpose of organizing the boys into a football team. Everybody being very enthusiastic, the organization was formed and they went on their first and very successful hike on Saturday to the South Fork, where they camped and explored. They are now planning many adventures for the future. Rev. Moore is their supervisor.

FUNERAL OF LATE J. J. WOODLAND

On Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock the interment of the late J. J. Woodland, Blaimore, Alberta, son of the late Stewart and Mrs. Woodland, Ottawa, took place from Holy Trinity church to the Edmonton cemetery. The service was conducted by the Bishop of Edmonton, who made a brief and sympathetic address, and paid tribute to the life and work of the deceased.

Ralph Cooper presided at the organ during the impressive service, which was attended by a number of sympathetic friends, the chief mourners were Mrs. J. J. Woodland, widow, Blaimore; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woodland, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. George Woodland, Calgary; Mrs. Singer, Kamloops; B. C.; Miss Lillian Woodland, Blaimore; and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fifth, Edmonton. The pallbearers were George McGilvary, Eric Boon, Harold Engley, J. A. Dunlop, Fred Brown and E. Corley.

The floral tributes, which were very beautiful, included the following: Wreath, St. Luke's church, Blaimore; spray, St. Luke's W. A., Blaimore; cross, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burns, Blaimore; spray, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McMillan, Blaimore; spray, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Ferrier, Blaimore; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brown, Blaimore; spray, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Fifth family; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hatfield, cross, Mr. and Mrs. McGilvary and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Shaw, Big Valley; wreath, Messrs. E. Corley and C. Upphart; spray, Mrs. Bishop and children; spray, Mrs. F. A. McGregor and family. Conspicuous among the emblems was one from Mr. Woodland's own family "Gates Ajar" design.

The late Mr. Woodland was born sixty-two years ago at Arnprior, Ontario, but spent most of his early life in Ottawa, where his mother still resides. He came west twenty-five years ago, and after a number of years spent in Edmonton, went to Blaimore, where he was in the lumbering business, foreman of McLean Lumbering Company mills, at the time of his death. His health has been indifferent since the beginning of the year, but his condition was not deemed critical until about a week before his death.

Mr. Woodland has always been a kind and loving husband and father, and an active church worker. He was rector's warden of St. Luke's church, Blaimore, at the time of his death, and had the respect of the whole community. He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, three sons, and two daughters: Messrs. Arthur, George and George Woodland; Mrs. Singer and Miss Lillian Woodland; and also his mother in Ottawa, two brothers in Duluth, one brother in Prescott, Ontario, and one sister, Mrs. Tremblay in New York.

Mrs. Woodland and family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in Edmonton, where they are well-known and highly respected. —Edmonton Journal.

A Jolt To The Wheel

By Julia Logan Archibald

It really happened. There are people who would doubt it; there are people who say the American stage is too well marshalled for such occurrences. But they never knew Cary Merle. And they never knew Kanton Gray. She could not be catalogued; she was too elfin—slight and fine, too elusive and rare. She was only half American. Her mother had been a great Spanish dancer, whose stage career had ended when she married a southern aristocrat. Kanton Gray, from babyhood. Teaching her was the only outlet for her mother's genius. Dancing was woven into the child's play; it was part of every mood—as natural as breathing. She herself did not dream how wonderful she was and her father's family frowned upon any trace of the mother's disapproved though glorious past.

Now she was alone, all her near relatives dead. For a year she had been struggling in New York. She had gone to managers. She was not the usual dancing type was not in their dictionary, and they would not even give her the opportunity to show she could dance. At last one of them, calculating her decorative effect, gave her a chorus job in the beautiful fantastic opera, "The Enchanted Road."

Kanton Gray was the composer and haunted every performance and every rehearsal with his kind, though weary smile. The opera represented blood and tears, and at last the bloom of life to him. He had had a sort of tragic existence until the tremendous success of this opera, and even now was not quite happy in its production.

The company was soon to sail for a London season—at least all except Trix, the premiere dancer, who was shortly to accomplish matrimony. Kanton Gray had never been pleased with her, though technically she was perfect, but as the weeks passed and no one was found worthy to take her place, the troubled look sank deeper into his eyes.

The company adored Cary. She made you feel you were somebody else, the person you always wanted to be. Nobody was jealous of her. She never got anything definite that anybody else wanted. She just drifted, carelessly shedding light for others to bask in. If men loved her, they never told her so. It was like loving an elf or a nymph—she seemed so detached, so intangible.

Kanton Gray had singled her out from the first—in an absent-minded sort of way. He used to call her to sit by him sometimes during long tiring waits. He talked to her about her old home in Charleston, her father and mother, and his manner was always quite fatherly. Her happy chatter seemed a little stifled with him.

The orchestra leader, Leon Vallon, was a queer genius, a sort of protégé of Kanton Gray's. He and Cary were great friends.

"Why is he always so sad?" she asked one day when no name had been mentioned.

"Oh, I don't know," he said, "just the loneliness of genius, I suppose. And he's troubled about the dancer. You see, most people wouldn't understand. I don't think he understands himself, but he's put his whole ideal of love into that role—the enchantress—and perhaps nobody will ever do it to please him—unless, perhaps, well he's always been disappointed in it perhaps."

"It's too bad," she said mistily, "he can't be happy in it—it's so beautiful. It's the enchanted road of life. Why, it makes me happy and I'm only a little bit of a shrubbery alongside of it. Oh—if he only could!"

Then it was that the idea struck Vallon. He had often played for Cary to dance, just for the sheer joy of it and he had a dim realization that her dancing was unusual, and perhaps he had a dim realization of something else too.

But now Vallon's soul was stirred, and so it was he hatched the plot. Walburn, the producer, was to sail the next day, two weeks ahead of the company. Some English dancer would be secured—of very doubtful quality.

Vallon told Trix, who readily consented to be his accomplice. "But do you think she'll do it? Has she the nerve? She is about as practical as a frolicsome kitten."

When he went to Cary she looked bewildered, her lips trembling. Then she said she would. At seven-forty that night she was peering into a cracked mirror in the dressing room putting the last touch of make-up on the end of her tip-tilted nose. Later, out in front, she moved in a daze, but, at Vallon's scolding eye, she managed a little make-believe smile as she tripped at the end of her line.

The act was nearing the end. The chorus line was swinging down stage preparatory to going off at the other side. Cary was the last of the line. She was the picture of grace and the spotlight turned on for Trix's dance, but there was no Trix. (Trix could faint as casually as a Jane Austin heroine.)

Cary stood stock still until she was alone on the stage. She was pale as a ghost. She could not move until she saw Vallon's face in the shadows and his hand beckoning her.

She reached the spot of light in the centre. The stage manager was all but shouting at her from the wings. Vallon's figure in his shirt, shot up right like a pillar of darkness. A strange emptiness and stillness seemed to close in around her. And somewhere out in front she knew was Kanton Gray groping his way toward his own enchanted road.

She was pale as a ghost. She could not move until she saw Vallon's face in the shadows and his hand beckoning her. She began to call to her, rising and falling in rhythmic melody. Her body began to sway with the music, as lightly as a flower bends on its stem.

The spotlight followed her, the stage director became quiescent, and Cary began to dance. Her face was alight with a soft, radiant smile, and the audience held its breath.

She began in a slow swinging motion, like the rising and falling, in circles of flight of a bird, a little white night-bird all as shimmering with silver-blue moonlight. The fountain of melody rose and swelled and burst to a myriad bright drops of ecstasy, while her little feet danced with the light exquisite pitter of a fairy's host.

Round and round she danced in widening circles. Now she became a gray-blue, curling wreath of smoke about in low straggling chords of sound. It was all in the night and somewhere were the moon and stars and cloudless sky, and the tinkle of faceted bells. Formless dreams floated into the hearts of those who saw and peace hung upon a young and sweet world.

Her swinging grew to whirling and the whirling into swirling, until she became a mere scintillating spot, mad in a maze of color. At last, still upon her toes, with arm stretched wide, she skimmed down the whole length of the stage, as the curtain went down, her head drooped and she sank into a heap before the footlights, drowned in her own glory.

They picked up the limp little form and bore it to the dressing room. The terrible storm of applause thundered madly, until the manager appeared with uplifted hand to say that Senorita Carita was indisposed. If possible she would reappear during the last act, and on succeeding evenings, in one of her original dances.

It was fifteen minutes later that Cary opened her eyes and let them rest comfortably upon Kanton Gray's face, while the orchestra played dreamily out in front. In some man's way of his he was keeping the crowd away from her. She took him quite as a matter of course, and when he saved in the change of her hand and smiled to see her returning strength, she was glad he was no longer sad. She brushed back a lock of hair from his forehead, as if she had done it a hundred times before. Then she closed her eyes again.

He leaned nearer her, breathing fast. "Cary," he hurried, "Walburn will be here in a few moments with a contract for you to sign. You're the sweetest little thing that God ever made. All I want is you! That's all I ever wanted. You don't need to dance for Walburn. It's like buying and selling Heaven. Can't you—do you—love—"

Her eyes opened slowly. "Oh, yes," she said languidly, "I do, I have all along, of course. That's why I—I didn't mind joggling the wheel of fate a little."

For British Preference

Reasons Why Canadians Should Buy
Within the Empire

"The new Budget has made it more advantageous than ever for Canadians to buy British goods rather than those of United States manufacture," declared Captain Evan J. Edwards, senior British Trade Commissioner in Canada, in a recent interview in Montreal.

"It will also be a big help to agents and business houses who prefer to do business with the Mother Country, and within the British Empire. Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, in his speech when introducing the Budget, pointed out that business with the United Kingdom continues to be satisfactory, imports from these having risen from $126,359,249 in 1919 to $213,930,946 in 1920, with the added satisfaction to Canadian buyers and consumers that their dollars are at a premium in the English market, as against a discount in the United States."

"A section of the Budget which will assist very much indeed is the clause requiring customs duty to be levied on the invoiced value of goods after taking the rate of exchange into account. At the desire of British interests throughout Canada, customs regulations drawn up several months ago made it compulsory for this to be done with European goods, but for certain reasons no similar requirements were made on imports from the United States. The result was a considerable advantage to importers of American goods, so much so, that in many cases with a high rate of exchange it amounted to a quite substantial reduction of the protective customs tariff, and sometimes did away with the preferential tariff given to products of the Empire."

"Now American manufacturers will rank the same as those of any other country," continued Captain Edwards, "and I believe the effect will be not only to encourage British trade, but to assist considerably in re-establishing the equilibrium of trade between Canada and the States, and bring back to its fair value the Canadian dollar, which is improving so slowly that still it is worth only some ninety cents in the States."

"Sir Henry Drayton says—and it is clearly known to every business man, including those Canadians and Americans who are interested in pouring into this country quantities of American manufactures—that Canada, to save herself from financial bankruptcy, must buy less from the States and more from the Empire. The list of products which can be raised or made on this side of the line, or in the United Kingdom."

"With the new aids to Empire trade, derived from Sir Henry's latest Budget, a saving of often from thirty to forty per cent, to the Canadian consumer can be shown by buying Empire products instead of American, and as Britishers, it is not necessary to remind Canadians that there are few lines of goods in which Old Country quality is not superior to that of the American article."

"Canada's own products can be far better supplied than they now are, by herself," insists Captain Edwards, whose many years' experience in big business in the Old Country and the other Dominions adds authority to his statements. "The more aggressive selling campaigns by our own manufacturers, perhaps a willingness to spread present heavy overhead charges more thinly over a bigger production, by price reductions, and more reliance on the part of Canadian buyers to be enjoined by the wiles of the American salesman in our midst, would all assist Canada in getting financially on her own feet."

The Home Of No Trash

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

Most homes contain little or much trash. And it is not until one starts to move or houseclean that one discovers how many useless things are harbored.

A bride of a year came to me the other day with a confession. Said she, "This housekeeping job is not what story writers would have us believe. I work just all the time—and you simply have to work all the time if you are to keep your house in good order."

She invited me to her home of seven rooms and bath.

One entire room was devoted to What Nots and other trash. It was termed "The Den." And it was laden to capacity with things from a miniature of Cleopatra's Needle to the proverbial, but decidedly realistic, anchor.

To make it a trashless home, it would have been necessary to get rid of nine-tenths of the ENCUMBRANCES in that Den.

But there is another type of trash hangar. It is the home in which everything of no use is relegated to the unoffending bathroom or guest (?) room or kitchen or attic.

Every housewife recognizes in her heart that there is trash of some kind in her home. Why doesn't she get rid of it? For, it takes REAL courage to resist the heart throb that comes to the born hoarder when she parts with that worn-out washboard—when she makes off with the mangle hairbrush, the peeling mirror, the ruined umbrella, the headless doll, the tripy door-mat, the time-worn brassy teaspoon and the cracked plate.

In contrast to the home cluttered with trash, let me tell you about a really beautiful home. At first you wondered why you felt such a sense of restfulness. And soon you began to realize that the charm of this home was due in great measure to its lack of furniture and furnishings.

As you entered, you came into the reception hall. On either side of the fireplace was a built-in bookcase. There was one large, delightfully roomy divan, a built-in window seat, a willow armchair. And you looked at the vivid Indian rug on the floor and your eye wandered over unnumbered wall space until it rested on one exquisite, soul-stirring picture. And you just sunk into a restful attitude and wished to stay long, long in this charming room.

Here housekeeping was just like playing house for it was a trashless home.

Hollow Prison Bars

Filled With Water, Slightest Break
Would Cause Investigation.

A new type of bars, designated for prisons are of hollow metal, filled with water. These pipes are all connected with a central pump, and the water is kept under high pressure. Thus, the slightest break in any bar would cause a powerful jet of water to spurt. To continue filing the bar would be almost impossible. Also the fact that there was a leakage somewhere would be registered on a dial on the central pump, and lead to speedy investigation.
